SEA COAST ECHO

The conservational landscaping on Hwy. 603 -- planted and maintained by volunteers and the city of Bay St. Louis -- is in full bloom and helping to both beautify the area and clean up the environment, according to Hancock County Beautification Chair Katharine Truett Ohman.

The landscaping is part of a long-term project, which anyone can volunteer to help with -- and can even implement at their own homes, Ohman said.

"Plants can filter pollutants from the water and create buffers to hold back additional contamination from non-point source pollution," Ohman said, including oil, chemicals, fertilizer, soil, animal waste, etc."Certain water plants will be encouraged to be installed in designat-

Supers meet with leaders of county fire districts

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors of Monday spread the Hancock County Rural Fire Feasibility Study on its minutes.

That afternoon, the board hosted a discussion with officials from the county's fire districts to gather their input about the study.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine said the study came about after the passage of House Bill 469, which gave county boards the authorization "to dissolve, redefine or reconfigure fire protection districts."

There are eight county fire districts and LaFontaine said the study is intended to look at possible opportunities to improve ratings. He added that he believes that Hancock is one of the first counties to do so.

One of the complaints of the study is that there was a lot of focus on Diamondhead, LaFontaine said.

"It's a rural-created district," he said. "They have full-time requirements and staff and the only rural-created district that falls within municipal boundaries."

In three to five years, LaFontaine said, the city of Diamondhead may be looking at assessing the fire fee to the millage.

"At no point is there any interest from us to try and negatively impact anyone or any district or make any changes that could be a detriment or hurtful or damage anyone or any district," LaFontaine said.

Supervisor Greg Shaw added that the board is not here "to close anything down," or say that "no one is doing a great job."

At that point, the board entertained questions from representatives of the fire districts.

Chris Ladner with Leetown Fire District said his biggest concern involved consolidating equipment.

LaFontaine said that he did not see equipment being taken away. In the study, districts would be redefined by restructuring Trustees Mark Kidd and Mike Bell did not attend Monday's meeting.

Board attorney Ronnie Artigues said the board scheduled four interviews for Monday night and one for Tuesday night.

According to the agenda for tonight's meeting -- Wednesday, April 4 -- the board is expected to approve a potential superintendent's contract of employment.

The special meeting is scheduled for today, Wednesday, April 4, at 5:30 p.m.

Photographer Takes Viewers on a Closer Look of Home

SEA COAST ECHO

When you find yourself immersed in the photography of Lonnie Haynes Jr. you get an intimate look at our Bay Side Coastal Life Style. It is a walk down the path of a simple vision of real life. Haynes's work is a comfortable microcosm reminding us that home in the Bay is made up of small things that make a meaningful life. When these objects are photographed together with focus and light Haynes's vision becomes home town comfortably clear.

Haynes, a Waveland native and graduate of Bay High, took leaving for college and a stint as a long distance truck driver to bring this authentic view of the south to his work. While noting a wide range of differences from across the country from the diversity of people to our country's topography, his work experience lead Hayes to say it's the "small things in life that remind me of home". Using his college time to take his first photography class Hayes quickly found that the course turned into much more and his vision through the camera lens became very real very quickly.

Haynes utilizes and adapted many of the methods of straight photography of The West Coast Movement which brings sharp focus and detail of natural American objects and scenery to his portfolio. Haynes masterfully delivers you on a visual journey of pure form when he focuses his camera lens on the top of a palm tree, or when he zooms in on a couple of sprinkled covered glazed donuts, or tractor tracks in wet beach sand. Haynes's view is real and he takes you with him on the trip.

Through photography and The Arts of Hancock County Hayes sees a future that brings people together. While many artists find themselves intrigued by their craft, Haynes says, "I didn't pick photography, it picked me."

Haynes work is hanging in Bay St. Louis City Hall until the end of May.

Gov. Bryant Sets Special Election Date for U.S. Senate

SEA COAST ECHO
JACKSON — Gov. Phil Bryant has set Nov. 6, 2018, as the special election date for United States Senate

The need for a special election arose when former Sen. Thad Cochran retired after more than 40 years of service to Mississippi. The qualifying deadline is 5 p.m. on April 24. If no candidate receives a majority of votes on Nov. 6, a runoff will be held on Nov. 27.

boundaries. According to information from the fire rating bureau, LaFontaine said, by doing so, the rating assessment would improve by pooling the resources under one boundary.

Tim Cameron with Kiln Fire Department told the board that a separate study on the Kiln might be helpful due to the fact that Kiln has a utility and fire district board.

"A little word of advice for future," Cameron said. "I think most of the people here are a little upset because nobody was included in the study as far as firefighters. I think everybody would accept this study more if we had all been told before it came out in the newspaper. No one knew anything about it."

He also invited the supervisors to come to a fire chiefs meeting and gather input.

Cameron thanked for the board for the study and said if it's done right, could benefit the citizens.

LaFontaine said he understood.

"You can blame me for that," he said. "From my perspective, I thought bringing the county and supervisors a plan would be a good starting point. I hope moving forward that this proposal can be a starting point for everyone to say 'okay', here's our input and this is how we would like to see some changes," and give everyone the opportunity to say."

Roland Lee, Jr. of Leetown Fire District, said one of the problems with the study is that it's "based on paperwork, not physically."

"The reasons why there are concerns about equipment is because you have to be there to see the work that these guys do," he said. "And I say 'these guys' because if it wasn't for the work these guys done and the effort and time that they put in for years to actually be able to purchase this equipment to be used in the fire department. These guys volunteer their time because they love their community, they love their people. Their heart is in what they do and they're dedicated to that. They still have to go out and make a living for their families."

Lee suggested that if the board is interested in making improvements, then it needs to get more involved with the fire departments.

He also added that he wasn't certain that better fire ratings would equal lower insurance costs.

In the study, there is a proposal for full-time and part-time positions. Audience members asked where the funds would come from to pay those people.

In one model, LaFontaine — referencing Harrison County — said the county pooled all their districts' money together and had one person, a fire coordinator, oversee scheduling and money.

The crowd also inquired as to whether volunteers would be compensated under the model.

Under the scenario of "pooling money," LaFontaine said, funds could be budgeted for volunteers.

"All of that stuff is open for discussion," he said. "A lot of years and man hours have went into volunteers and to deny them the opportunity to have some type of pay or benefit, I think it would be foolish of us not to look at that moving forward."

Roland Lee, III, of Leetown Fire District asked if fire chiefs and assistant chiefs would retain administrative control of their departments.

With redistricting boundaries, LaFontaine said, there may be a merged board, but would still have same administrative capacities.

In the rural fire services model, the fire coordinator would still work directly with the fire chiefs.

Lee, III, also asked if volunteers would be offered jobs first if the county adopted the model with full-time and part-time positions.

LaFontaine said that the benefit of implementing full-time and part-time positions is that the volunteers know the equipment and area already.

"I see benefits where volunteers have incentives to work towards an opportunity to fill those positions," he said. "So I would think that, yes, people that are already in the community that are actively engaged members, in my opinion, they would and should have local preference."

LaFontaine closed the meeting by inviting fire officials to collaborate with the board of supervisors and add their input to the conversation.

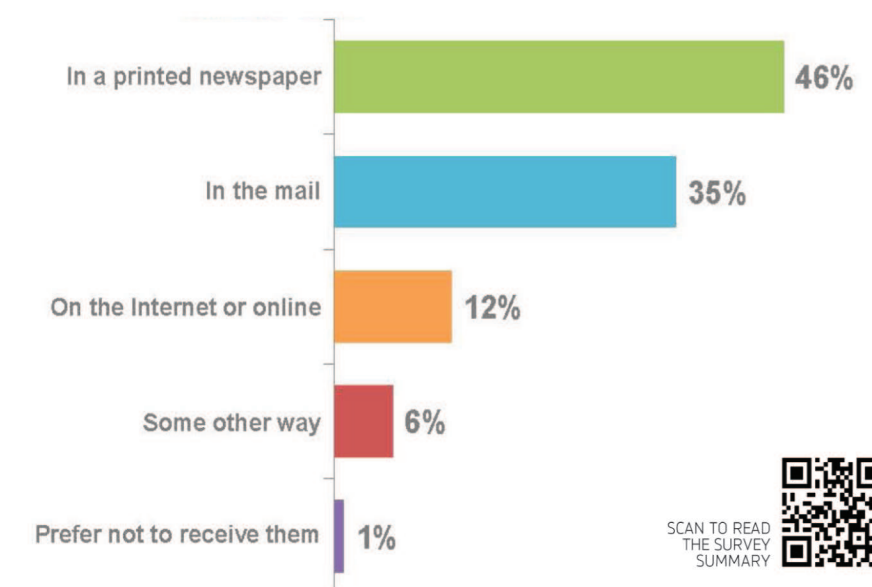

Fire district officials also suggested that the board host a community meeting to hear what residents have to say.

According to the motion to spread the study on the minutes, a copy of the study will be made available for public viewing on Hancock County's website at www.hancockcounty.ms.gov.

The government's business is your business.

And Mississippians count on their newspapers to keep apprised of public notice advertising.

Half of Mississippi adults recall reading or seeing public notice advertising in a local or state newspaper.

And almost half (46%) of adults who have seen public notice advertising prefer to receive them in a printed newspaper, much higher than any other source.

Most Mississippians (87%) say keeping the public informed through public notices and legal advertising is an important requirement for government agencies. And the preferred method of receiving these notices is in a printed newspaper along with their associated websites.

According to a 2013 Advertising and Media Use Survey*, legal ads in printed newspapers have a much higher credibility than other media.

Over 1.5 million Mississippians read their local newspaper. Whether in print, online or on the go, newspapers are the leading source of information for Mississippi.

Cochran, One of Nation's Greatest Senators

In a way, this week is a sad one for me. On the other hand, it is a celebration. April 1 was the last day of Thad Cochran's elected public service, which spanned 45 years. Think back to what life in Mississippi was like in 1973. A lot has changed, for the good, I might add. April 1 was also a celebration of Thad Cochran's accomplishments.

Some people go to Washington to make a point. Thad Cochran did not go for that. Leader McConnell said it best: "Thad knows there's a difference between making a fuss and making a difference," McConnell said. "And the people of Mississippi—and our whole nation—have benefitted from his steady determination to do the latter."

I have known Senator Cochran for almost 30 years. I first met him when I had the opportunity of a lifetime to serve him, our great state and our great nation—I worked for him in his Senate office in Washington, D.C. I remember him telling me when I first started that both "conservation" and "conservative" have the same Latin roots. He asked me to approach my work with that in mind. I still try to do that every day.

Senator Cochran has done so much that it would take a forest to make the necessary paper to list it all. But in my world of conservation and sporting issues, he is a champion. Cochran grew up hunting and fishing and values the important lessons and experiences people can gain from being outdoors. He has consistently represented the interests of hunters, anglers and gun owners by supporting policies that protect our Second Amendment rights, promote conservation, especially on private lands, minimize burdensome or unnecessary regulations, and expand access to public lands.

Senator Cochran authored a wildlife incentives program—which has restored and enhanced almost 7 million acres with 31,000 landowners. He has championed Wetlands Reserve, which is a voluntary program that has restored 3 million acres with 18,000 landowners. He has helped create programs to restore longleaf pine and native grasslands. He has created the only refuge in the nation named for an African American—Holt Collier. And the list goes on. Add up the list above and Senator Cochran has touched about 12 million acres—the same size as the State of Maryland. There is NO other Senator with the conservation accomplishments of Thad Cochran.

But the greatest thing about Senator Cochran has nothing to do with conservation. It is the respect that people have for him. He has earned that by listening

Is the cyber world more trick or treat?

Way back in 1949, pre-scient George Orwell penned the novel Nineteen Eighty-four that describes society as a creepy place where every citizen is under constant surveillance by the authorities, mainly by tele-screens. The people are constantly reminded of this by the slogan, "Big Brother is watching you."

It took a jolting outing of shady Facebook practices to wake us up recently. Now 69 years after debuting 1984, it's déjà vu doing the same number on us again. However, this time it is not just the authorities spying on us, but some businesses and evil individuals. "We have a responsibility to protect your information. If we can't, we don't deserve it. You may have heard about a quiz app built by a university researcher that leaked Facebook data of millions of people in 2014. This was a breach of trust, and I'm sorry we didn't do more at the time. We're now taking steps to make sure this doesn't happen again.

"We've already stopped apps like this from getting so much information. Now we're limiting the data apps get when you sign in using Facebook.

"We're also investigating every single app that had access to large amounts of data before we fixed this. We expect there are others. And when we find them, we will ban them and tell everyone affected.

"Finally, we'll remind you which apps you've given access to your information — so you can shut off the ones you don't want anymore.

The one solid fact that is occurring with this turmoil is bickering and division of communities. Our national, state and local image is tarnished daily.

Our image is displayed negatively to investors, developers looking for opportunities, recreational organizers, our grant requests and educational values etc.

Our sales tax and casino revenues are in decline but our housing market

Rather than helping tech companies correct flaws in their products, the CIA selfishly develops methods intrusive into technologies, thus undermining efforts to protect the cybersecurity of Americans. They can even take over a system without being detected. The CIA uses a tool called "Weeping Angel" that places the SmartTV in a "Fake-Off" mode, so that the owner falsely believes the TV is off when it is on. In "Fake-Off" mode, the TV operates as a bug, recording conversations in the room, even encrypted apps, and sending them over the Internet to a covert CIA server. In case of doubt, you may want to resort to unplugging a particular appliance.

How can you prevent spying? Electronic devices can receive and transmit data, wirelessly, across the internet, making our lives easier. But that very ease of receiving and transmitting through Smart TV's that connect easily to Netflix, Hulu and other apps poses the problem that your TV is now connected to the internet at all times, enabling Netflix to keep a list of movies you've watched. It is a big mistake to use the "default" settings and passwords on most internet devices.

Cameras can give snoopers a look into your private life. What can you do to stop webcam spies? Cover your webcam or disable it if you don't use it. Even Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg and former FBI director James Comey put tape over theirs. Always use an up-to-date antivirus and enable your firewall. Use cameras over a secure internet connection. Keep your operating system, browser and software up-to-date. Don't click on suspicious links and don't chat with strangers online. Avoid fake emails that appear to be sent from trusted sources asking you to download attachments, click on a link or disclose any personal details.

Set up a secure password and antivirus for your smartphone, with up-to-date software. For a surveillance system, replace the default password with a secure one.

of a controlled substance; possession, sale, etc., of a stolen weapon; and possession of a weapon by a felon.
 Mueller was out on bond awaiting trial for an attempted murder charge, which arose from an August 2017 incident in which he allegedly fired two shots into a woman's car during what deputies described as a "domestic dispute."
 Mueller had apparently spotted his ex-girlfriend driving on the highway in a small blue SUV, Chief Investigator Glenn Grannan said at the time, and began to follow her.
 As the vehicles neared Highway 90 and Lower Bay Road, Mueller fired two shots into her car, Grannan said.

The two vehicles then traveled down Lower Bay Road with Mueller following the victim, officials said.
 At some point, the victim called 911 and authorities from several different agencies began to converge on the area, Grannan said.
 When the two vehicles reached the intersection of Lower Bay and Lakeshore roads, Grannan said, Mueller drove off in a different direction.
 "The victim saw him pull off and she turned around and began following him," Grannan said.
 A short time later, Mueller crashed his vehicle on Clermont Blvd. near the fire station, Grannan said.
 Deputies arrived at the scene at about the same time and Mueller was taken into custody, officials said.
 At the time of the shooting, Mueller was also out on parole for a prior conviction, Russell said.
 No hearing has been set yet on the new charges.
 As of press time Tuesday, Mueller remained incarcerated at the Hancock County Jail without bond.

Boudin

Prior to the Monday vote, Boudin's Environmental Waste owner Joey Boudin outlined his reasons for wanting the upgrade, which would allow him to dump construction debris.
 The property in question – the Hardie dump – already has about three million yards of construction debris, Boudin said.
 Boudin said he spends about $50,000 a month dumping his waste at landfills outside of Hancock County. He said he could bring that waste here, employ more people and provide benefits to the taxpayers.
 He added that construction is on the rise in Hancock County. Boudin said it's "very important" to also be prepared for the "next disaster." He said the current sites can't handle the volume.
 Boudin said the projected lifespan of the site is about 30 to 40 years.
 "Do you wanna think it's very important for the Solid Waste Authority to have somebody to bid against them?" Boudin said. "Do you wanna think it's very important to give the best rate to the taxpayer? I think y'all pay $4.75 a yard for disposal. You all are probably their largest single customer, they send you one bill, Solid Waste Authority sends them one check. You can't get a good deal because you can't negotiate. You don't have a competitor."

 Boudin referenced an invoice from a Slidell company that's paying $2.85 per yard to dump.
 Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine said he looked at 16 counties in Mississippi with populations equivalent to Hancock County.
 There are 88 Class Ones sites in the state, he said.
 There are two permitted Class One sites in Hancock County, but only one is active, LaFontaine added, which he said is not uncommon. The site in the north end is inactive.
 "The sites per capita is about 34,000 population per one site," LaFontaine said. "Hancock County at 47,000 people estimated, at two permitted sites, is already exceeding what the state per capita is. We don't want, in my opinion, the reputation of being Hancock County: The home of Class One rubbish sites. That's not what we're trying to do. But we're also trying to work with you and the guidelines of the application and the need."
 According to an MDEQ report, LaFontaine said, statewide there has been a 22 percent increase in out-of-state rubbish in the past five years.
 King Landfill is the only current active site in Hancock County, LaFontaine said. Over the past five years, the site went from receiving 22,000 tons to 18,000 tons and 11,000 from out-of-state down to 5,000, he said.
 LaFontaine said that the question before the board is, "is there a need in Hancock County?" He said that maybe the only thing the board could look at as a "need" would be competitive pricing.
 MDEQ recommends there be two Class One sites in the county, one in the north end and one in the south end. The site Boudin wants to operate is close to the south side, LaFontaine said.
 Supervisor David Yarborough said he "sees no reason why we couldn't pass to allow this man to improve his business in Hancock County."
 "There have been three things in the past that have kept him from getting it: Politics, greed and jealousy," Yarborough said.
 Yarborough said he also sees a need for this site in Hancock County.
 King Landfill owner Richard Santiago also spoke to the board. He said before he got the county contract, the county paid $28,000 per month and now pays $13,000.
 The projected lifespan of his site is 42 years, Santiago said.
 Santiago said the annual tonnage of Class One debris for King is about 18,000 tons and 6,000 from out-of-state.
 In the event of a disaster, Santiago said, he can "guarantee the county 3 million cubic yards" and has "35 acres permitted and ready to go."
 Santiago said there's not enough volume for two Class One sites and that "one of us would close."
 Yarborough made a motion to accept Boudin's application. The motion

Little Theatre auditions for "Harvey"

SEA COAST ECHO
 The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre has scheduled auditions for the iconic "Harvey" written by Mary Chase. The play won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama in 1945. It was adapted into the popular movie starring James Stewart in 1950. Keith Gregory will direct the show.
 Auditions will be held on Sunday, April 8 and Monday, April 9 at 6:30pm. The Theatre is located at 398 Blaize Avenue in the Depot District. The casting calls for 6 men and 6 women, ages 18 to 80's. Auditions will be cold readings from the script. All are welcome to audition. Usually for every BSLLT show, there are cast members experiencing their first performance on stage. Every show provides an opportunity to involve beginning actors with veteran actors.
 "Harvey" is a story about Elwood P. Dowd and his friend Harvey. Elwood insists on including his friend Harvey in all of his sister Veta's social gatherings. Trouble is, Harvey is an imaginary six-and-a-half-foot tall rabbit. To avoid future embarrassment for her family – and especially for her daughter, Myrtle Mae – Veta decides to have Elwood committed to a sanitarium. At the sanitarium, a frantic Veta explains to the staff that her years of living with Elwood's hallucination have caused her to see Harvey, too, and so the doctors mistakenly commit her instead of Elwood. The truth comes out, however; and Veta is freed, and the search is on for Elwood, who eventually arrives at the sanitarium of his own volition, looking for Harvey. But it seems that Elwood and his invisible companion have had a strange influence on more than one of the doctors. Only at the end does Veta realize that maybe Harvey isn't so bad after all.

 "Harvey" opens on June 1st. Show dates are June 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10. For more information call 228-467-9024.

gardens/ditches/retention ponds within Hancock County.
 "These specialized plants will absorb pollutants from street and parking lot run-off, yards, etc. and in turn help keep excess pollutants from further entering our environment through waterways."

 Ditch plants are emerging as the "weapons of choice" against water contamination, Ohman said, including: Louisiana Iris; cattails; swamp lilies; reeds; canna lilies; and elephant ears
 "One of the Hancock County Beautification goals is to maintain and enhance existing water quality and uses by reducing and eliminating non-point source pollution through cooperation among local, state, federal agencies and especially through the public," Ohman said.

 "Demonstrating new and innovative alternatives -- such as planting specialized plants within environmental water gardens/retention ponds -- is one way to accomplish this goal. Additionally environmental gardens provide a means to educate the public regarding opportunities to participate in this vital effort to reduce water contamination."

failed 3-2. LaFontaine and Supervisors Bo Ladner and Scotty Adam voted "no." Supervisor Greg Shaw voted "yes."
 After that motion failed, LaFontaine made a motion to send the application to MDEQ to make a recommendation for a determination of need. The motion passed unanimously.
 In other action:

 • The board discussed scheduling a date for the event, "Coffee with the Supervisors." No action was taken, but the board is looking at a May date for the event.

 • The board approved a proclamation recognizing April as Child Abuse Awareness and Prevention Month.

 • The next board meeting is scheduled for April 16 at 9 a.m.

Holiday weekend slows diamond play

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The action on the diamond slowed somewhat over the weekend due to the Easter holiday and school's letting out for spring break. However, everything will be ramping up for the final stretch.

The only team in action on Saturday was the Bay High Tigers as they hosted the Gautier Gators on the baseball diamond.

The Tigers swept the Gators 18-8 and 9-3 to improve to 11-6 overall.

In the first game, the Tigers jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the first inning before Gautier responded with a four-run third inning followed by one run in the fourth and three more in the fifth inning. The Tigers answered the Gators charge with one run in the third, six in the fourth, four in the fifth and three in the sixth to force the 'mercy rule'.

Jacob Brady led the Tiger charge with three hits, including two doubles, and five RBIs. Colby Oliver added two hits and three RBIs while CJ Levandoski, Joe Bell, Cade Compretta, Cole Brady and Nathaniel Wilson all had one hit. Wilson and Cole Brady each tallied two RBIs, as well.

In the second game, Gautier jumped out to a 2-0 lead on to see Bay High hang a run in the second and third innings followed by three runs in the fourth and sixth and a single run in the fifth.

Levandowski had two hits including a triple and an RBI. Addie Goscinski and Skyler Hysell each had two hits while Compretta, Oliver and Cole Brady all had one hit. Compretta also added two RBIs.

On the softball diamond, Bay High dropped a game with Vancleave on Saturday 4-0 but game details were not available.

In upcoming games on the baseball diamond, Bay High travels across town to SSC on Friday, April 6th and hosts Laurel and Resurrection on Saturday, April 7th. The Hancock Hawks travel to Biloxi on Friday and St. Patrick on Saturday. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws host Bay High Friday and Harrison Central on Saturday.

On the softball diamond, the Lady Tigers of Bay High travel to Moss Point on Thursday and Gulfport Friday. The Lady Hawks travel to Picayune Friday while OLA returns to play on Tuesday, April 10th when they travel to Collins. See you at the games!

Wildcats continue hot play with sweep over Itawamba

BY STAN CALDWELL
PRCC SPORTS
INFORMATION

POPLARVILLE – The River keeps right on rolling in baseball.

Pearl River Community College continued to play winning ball Friday afternoon, sweeping an MACJC doubleheader from second-ranked Itawamba, 5-0 and 8-6.

No. 18 PRCC (22-4 overall) remained in first place in the conference at 8-0, improving its winning streak to six games. The Wildcats have won 13 of their last 14 games. Itawamba (19-5) dropped into fourth place at 5-3 in conference games.

Freshman Shemar Page (Raleigh) struck out 10 batters and the Wildcats held the Indians to three hits in the opener. Freshman Wiley Cleland (Columbia) hit a two-run double in the sixth inning of Game 2 to put the Wildcats on top after trailing 5-0 early.

"First game, I thought we pitched it well," said PRCC coach Michael Avalon. "We left a few runners on base, and that's something we need to work on, getting better in situational hitting."

"But the bottom line is, we played really hard against a good team and got a couple of big victories going into Easter."

Page (6-0) was sensational in Game 1. He went seven innings, struck out 10, walked three and allowed two hits. He was never in serious trouble, and when the Indians did get runners on base, the Wildcat defense was able to deal with it.

PRCC turned a double play after a leadoff walk in the third, then threw out a runner at second trying to stretch a leadoff single in the fifth into a double and a thwarted steal in the sixth kept a run off the board when the Indians got a two-out triple.

Redshirt freshman Matt Taylor (Raleigh) hit the first pitch in the bottom of the second for a home run to leftfield, his first of the season.

The Wildcats made it 3-0 on a two-run double by redshirt sophomore Bryson Medious, and added two more runs on back-to-back solo homers in the seventh by Medious and sophomore Simon Landry (Ponchatoula, La.).

It was the fourth homer of the season for Medious and the 10th for Landry.

Freshman Colin Danley (Lucedale) pitched the final two innings, allowing only an infield single with two out in the ninth, and he struck out three.

In the second game, the Indians jumped on redshirt sophomore Drake Nightengale for five runs on five hits and three wild pitches, two of which were dropped third strikes.

But Nightengale settled down and got the Wildcats to the fourth inning, by which time PRCC had battled back.

Sophomore Derek Eberly (Blountstown, Fla.) led off the bottom of the first with a double, Medious was hit by a pitch and both came trotting home on Landry's second homer of the day, giving him 38 RBIs for the year.

Medious hit a double to cut the margin to 5-4 in the second, driving in freshman Trenton Lee (Picayune), who led off the inning with a single.

Itawamba got a run in the fourth, but freshman Jerod Meggs came out of the bullpen to get a double play to end the inning. Eberly answered with a leadoff homer in the bottom of the inning, his fifth of the year.

Pearl River's winning rally in the sixth came after sophomore Colby White (Foxworth) worked around a leadoff single and a wild pitch that allowed the runner to reach third after a sacrifice. White got a groundout to third and a fly ball to leftfield to keep the Indians at bay.

With one out, Landry smacked a double off the wall in centerfield, freshman Noah Barron (Hoover, Ala.) and Taylor both walked to load the bases, and Cleland laced a 3-2 pitch just inside the third base bag into the leftfield corner to drive in two runs.

Freshman Magruder O'Bannon (Long Beach) followed with a sacrifice fly to score an insurance run. But White didn't need it, as he got two strikeouts and a groundout to Cleland at third to retire ICC in order and earn the victory, improving his record to 2-1.

"I keep sounding like a broken record with these kids when I tell them, 'we've got a good team coming in here. If we don't play well, it won't go well for us,'" Avalon said.

"But we'll give them a couple of days off to be with their families for Easter, then get ready for East Central and Meridian next week."

The Wildcats will be on the road to face the 17th-ranked Warriors at 3 p.m. Wednesday. PRCC will host Meridian on Saturday in the first of three consecutive home doubleheaders. Game 2 against the Eagles will be livestreamed on prccmedia.com.

SEA COAST ECHO
The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy (HYLA) High School Program Class of 2018 spent their most recent session, sponsored by Tellus Self Storage, learning about local governments in the area. They visited with elected officials of Hancock County and two of its three municipalities and learned important lessons regarding congressional politics. The 2018 HYLA High School Class is comprised of 29 eleventh graders from Hancock County who represent all four area high schools. On Wednesday, March 21st, the high school leaders embarked on their third session by meeting City and County officials in the new Annex Building. The students interacted here with Chancery Clerk Tim

Kellar, Tax Assessor Jimmie Ladner, Circuit Clerk Karen Ruhr, Councilman Josh DeSalvo (Bay St. Louis), Mayor Mike Smith (Waveland), and Hancock County Board President Blaine Lafontaine. These young leaders learned about the intricacies of local government directly from city and county leaders. Blaine Lafontaine commented, “I want to thank the Hancock Resource Center for allowing us the opportunity to speak to our leaders of tomorrow. This was an opportunity to invest in our future. Events like this will help these young men and women understand certain things, so that they can meet the challenges of the future.” Next on the agenda was a visit with Veteran Charles Nelson, Past Commander American Legion Post 77, who gave a moving presentation about his years of military service to our country during World War 2. He impressed upon the young leaders the importance of continuing their education and working hard at whatever they do in life. He hopes the next generation values the sacrifices made to make America “the greatest country in the world.” HYLA students were then immersed in an active learning activity of the bill-to-law process in the U.S. Congress. By playing the game Bananas Congress, students gained a solid understanding the challenges members of Congress have when they must pass legislation. After visiting the Mississippi State Capitol in February, HYLA students further enhanced their knowledge this session of how government works on the local, state, and national levels and increased their understanding of how the political process affects decision making in the various contexts. The Hancock Youth Leadership Academy is the first and only county-wide youth leadership program in Hancock County, and is a program of The Hancock Resource Center. Moving forward, local community sponsorships are needed. Please consider sponsoring a session or making a general donation to support the ongoing operation of the Hancock Youth Leadership Academy. Invest in Hancock County’s future by cultivating its next generation of leaders: visit www.hancockhrc.org or call 228-463-8887 to learn how.

Feeding the Gulf Coast granted $35,000 by Food Research & Action Center and the Walmart Foundation

SEA COAST ECHO
Food Research & Action Center and the Walmart Foundation granted $35,000 to Feeding the Gulf Coast to help fight hunger in south Alabama and south Mississippi through Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) outreach. With this grant, Feeding the Gulf Coast’s SNAP Outreach Program hopes to target households living in rural communities and senior populations with the goal of receiving 1,500 applications. “One in six people struggle with hunger along the central Gulf Coast,” says Feeding the Gulf Coast President & CEO, Cathy Pope. “We are thankful to the Food Research & Action Center for helping to ensure that people who struggle with hunger have access to nutrient-rich food. This grant will go a long way in helping Feeding the Gulf Coast serve our south Alabama and south Mississippi service areas.” SNAP is a federal program that helps families and individuals afford groceries. Feeding the Gulf Coast’s SNAP Outreach Program works with community organizations to reach households who qualify for SNAP benefits but face barriers preventing them from participating in the application process. The SNAP Outreach Team will answer general questions about SNAP benefits and provide materials to help the applicant prepare for an interview with a caseworker. By helping enroll qualifying participants in the program, the food bank can free up resources for those in need who do not qualify to receive SNAP benefits. To find out more about SNAP eligibility, call our free and confidential hotline: 1-877-833-2550. For more information, visit www.feedingthegulfcoast.org.

OLA was the only rookie team selected for an alliance to compete in the playoffs and was presented with the "Rookie Inspiration Award". OLA's Robotics Team is the only all girl robotics team in the State of Mississippi. These high-school level robotics teams, with the guidance of adult mentors, had 6 weeks to design, build and program their competitive robot to perform a series of tasks as a sport, using offense, defense quick thinking and scouting techniques. Teams must use code and programming, CAD, mechanical and electrical engineering, automation and robotics. "Our team was amazing! These students have worked so hard and their perseverance and dedication to the project paid off at their first competition! I applaud their efforts and their team work in building OLA's first robot. We are grateful to our sponsors, NVision Solutions, NASA, Stennis Facility, South Group Insurance, Steven Palazzo for Congress, United States Marine and Mississippi Power who have mentored and contributed their time and funds to make this program a success," said Mrs. Cranford.

Scholarships and Art Supply Donations

Proceeds from Art in the Pass support art education in Mississippi Gulf Coast schools. Last year, Art in the Pass awarded $11,500 in scholarships and school grants to participating schools in Harrison and Hancock counties. Monetary awards included three scholarships to graduating seniors pursuing art-related careers, as well as grants designated to fund art programs in coastal high schools, Pass Christian schools and the Pass Christian Boys and Girls Club. Each artist in the festival contributes one piece to the silent auction, and proceeds from the auction and the on-site donation box fund the scholarships and art supplies. The student art show will take place on Sunday, April 8, and the winners of this year's scholarships will be announced at 1 p.m.

Sponsors

Art in the Pass is a program of Pass Christian Main Street Association. Its sponsors include the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources (MDMR), Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality (MDEQ), WaterFest, and the City of Pass Christian. The sponsors party location this year is the Blue Rose in Pass Christian.

AAA Southern Traveler Travel Treasure Award

In 2015, Art in the Pass was selected as an official AAA Southern Traveler Travel Treasure by the AAA Association. AAA Southern Traveler magazine is read by more than 290,000 frequent travelers, and each bimonthly issue features a series of four to six unique Southern attractions.
